DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Feist (US 6,142,985; herein 'Feist'). Regarding claims 1, 3, and 5-6 Feist discloses disposable absorbent diaper 20 with absorbent core 28 positioned between liquid pervious topsheet 24 and liquid impervious backsheet 26 (col. 5, ll. 55-61), an elasticized outer leg cuff 32 disposed adjacent a longitudinal edge of the article (col. 5, line 62 and figure 1), the outer leg cuff having a proximal flap base 78, distal flap 79, and a barrier/gasketing cuff-side flap 1076 supported by base 78 at a joint (col. 31, ll. 10-19, figures 10-11), the gasketing cuff-side flap 1076 being provided with elasticity and having a top gasket cuff surface, first segment/inner cuff 1004 extending laterally inward from the joint and second segment/outer cuff 1006 extending laterally outward from the joint (col. 31, ll. 30-36, figure 11);

Wherein, before use, the distal edge 79 of outer cuff 32 is folded laterally inwardly onto the inner surface/topsheet 24 of absorbent diaper 20 along a first folding line that is positioned on proximal flap 78 so that the top gasket cuff surface faces upwardly and the distal edge is folded back laterally outward along a second folding line that is positioned between the first folding line and the joint and adjacent the joint (figure 11 detailed in figure A).

Feist further discloses the Z-folded barrier cuffs provide effective BM containment in the back and good containment of body exudates in the crotch area of the disposable absorbent article (col. 31, ll. 1-5).

Regarding claim 2 Feist discloses an alternative embodiment of disposable absorbent article that is folded along a lateral direction to form a pant-type training pant 920 (col. 38, ll. 42-45 and figure 9).

Regarding claims 4 and 7 Feist discloses a first folding line positioned adjacent a longitudinal side edge of absorbent core 28 and an outer longitudinal edge positioned inboard of first folding line (figure 11).

Regarding claims 8-9 Feist discloses a third segment 1010 adjacent distal edge 79 of elasticized outer cuff being joined to topsheet 24 with an adhesive (col. 31, ll. 42-47).

Regarding claim 10 Feist discloses the elasticized outer leg cuff 32 is Z-folded and therefore capable of being generally T-shaped when viewed from a three-dimensional view (annotated figure 11).

Fig. 11

If a prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use as recited in the preamble, then it meets the claim. See, e.g., In re Schreiber, 128 F.3d 1473, 1477, 44 USPQ2d 1429, 1431 (Fed. Cir. 1997).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 22 September 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

2. It is noted that the abstract of the disclosure was objected to (for containing 171 words) and not rejected under 35 USC 112, first paragraph as indicated in Applicant's response. Newly amended abstract has been entered.

3. In response to Applicant's argument that 'barrier cuff 1076 disclosed in Feist as relied on by the Office as anticipating claims 1-10 is an inner leg cuff and not an elasticized outer leg cuff disposed adjacent to the longitudinal side edge of the absorbent article as claimed' (see Remarks, page 4), it is noted that the terms 'inner' and 'outer' are relative terms and therefore the 'elasticized outer leg cuff' is not limited to being located on the outermost side portion of the diaper and the 'inner cuff' is not limited to being located on the innermost side portion as long as the inner cuff extends laterally inward from the joint and the outer cuff extends laterally outward from the joint. Furthermore, Feist discloses outer leg cuff 32 located on the outside of inner leg cuff 1004 (see non-final Office action, page 3).

4. In response to Applicant's argument that 'cuff 1076 does not have a base and a gasket cuff supported by the base at a joint of the base to the gasket cuff, much less an inner cuff extending laterally inwardly from the joint and an outer cuff extending laterally outwardly from the joint' (see Remarks, page 5), see non-final Office action rejection with respect to claim 1.

5. In response to Applicant's argument that 'it is not clear, how such configuration is capable of being generally T-shaped' (see Remarks, page 5), outer leg cuff 32 is Z-folded and therefore capable of being generally T-shaped as discussed above with respect to claim 10.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 3761

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
